MAN WHILE AFIRE FALLS TO DEATH

Took Fatal Drop when he was Pulled from Stove. Friend, Weighing Two Hundred Pounds, then Fell upon him.

Frank Taylor, sixty three years old, of Middleborough, Mass., employed at the Thomasville Stone and Lime company's plant, below Abbottstown, died in the York hospital at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon from hemorrhage of the brain and fracture of the skull, sustained on Friday at 5 p. m., when with Charles Able, who was pulling him away from a stove to prevent his clothes from igniting, he fell through a door, on the second story of a shack at Thomasville, to the ground, a distance of ten feet.

The Thomasville plant had been closed for Christmas and it is said that Taylor and Able had been celebrating the day. About 5 o'clock in the afternoon they went to their room on the second story of one of the company's shacks. Taylor sat beside the stove which was red hot, and fell asleep. Able suddenly noticed Taylor's coat smoking and tried to pull him away from the stove. As he did so he tripped and both men fell through an unlocked door. There was no balcony or railing and the men fell to the ground.

Able, who weighs 220 pounds, fell upon Taylor, Taylor was rendered unconscious and remained in that state until his death. He was removed to the first floor of the shack and Dr. E. S. Stambaugh was summoned.

On examination the physician found that Taylor had sustained a fracture at the base of the skull. He was taken to the York hospital in an automobile by Dr. Stambaugh and Charles Whitman. Able sprained his right shoulder in the accident.

Taylor had been employed about the plant at different times during the last eight years. Efforts are being made to find whether he has any relatives.

Fire Completely Destroys Residence of Family while Neighbors Know Nothing of their Misfortune. Finally Given Shelter.

Returning from a visit to find their home in flames Charles Hoffman and family, of Edgemont, were left in the bitter cold of Saturday night without shelter. Not one of their neighbors knew anything of the fire until Mr. Hoffman finally succeeded in arousing one family by whom the homeless ones were taken in. The farm was owned by Aaron Newcomer.

Mrs. Hoffman had spent Friday and Saturday at the home of her parents, near Leitersburg, and her husband had gone over in a sleigh to bring her home. When he left home about 8 o'clock the fire in the kitchen stove was apparently all right. Returning with his wife and children they discovered the building in flames. The fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to save but a few pieces of furniture. All of the clothing and personal effects, including some money, were lost.

Within an hour their home was a mass of smoking ruins and as no one but themselves knew of the fire it was necessary for the Hoffmans to hunt for a place to spend the night and to locate temporarily. Their nearest neighbors live more than a quarter of a mile away, and with the thermometer below zero this was no pleasant task.

The building was valued at about $1,200, and the furniture, which was nearly a total loss, at $500.

Mr. Newcomer carried insurance on the building while Mr. Hoffman had several hundred dollars on the furniture.

Although the origin of the fire is not definitely known it is believed to have been caused by an overheated stove or a defective chimney.

BOMBARD METZ FROM THE AIR

French Birdmen Retaliate For Attack on Nancy.

AMOUNT OF DAMAGE UNKNOWN

Bombs Are Hurling on Barracks, Aviation Hangars and Railroad Station Where Trains Were Moving.

Paris, Dec. 28.—With dramatic suddenness the French have avenged the Zeppelin attack on Nancy by sending French aeroplanes over the enemy's lines to drop bombs on the great German base and fortress of Metz.

The French assert that the air attack on Nancy, where two persons were killed and two injured, was without military reason.

The targets of the French aviators which successfully reached the German fortress were purely military and consisted of the big aviation hangars; there, one of the military barracks and a railroad station where troops were being moved.

The spectacular raid was the outstanding feature of the official communication from the French war office. Of the movements afield little was said except to report that there had been artillery exchanges all along the line, especially in Flanders and most of northern France, where the allies had made some slight gains, repulsing German attacks at all points.

Heavy fogs in the north have caused a period of comparative calm there. The aeroplanes rose from the base behind the French lines and turned toward Metz. The progress eastward across the Moselle appears to have gone unnoticed until after they had crossed the river and proceeded well toward the western forts which form the outer ring of defense of the German base.

The French aviators displayed great skill and daring in maneuvering. Descending from the high altitude at which they had crossed the frontier that there might be greater certainty of aim, the aviators dropped their first bomb.

From all points where anti-aircraft guns could be brought to bear on the daring aviators the shrapnel began to burst near the aerial craft, while from the hangars the German airmen, their machine guns ready, began to climb into the air.

The French aviators dropped their bombs onto a group of the hangars and swept across the city over one of the important railroad stations, through which pass troops and supplies to the German front. Here, not ing troops being entrained, they dropped more bombs. Swinging southward as they turned toward France and the safety of her lines, with the German aviators in pursuit, the Frenchmen passed over the barracks of St. Privat, where they dropped the last of their bombs.

Apparently the French pilots escaped without any material damage, despite the bombardment to which they were subjected, for the official communication makes mention of no casualty or damage. How much damage was accomplished by the raid has not been ascertained.

For the last two days all the battle front north of the Lys has been enveloped in thick fogs, which have drawn a veil between the allies and the enemy and has brought a lull in the fighting.

Under cover of the fog each has attempted surprise attacks, but the difficulties of such operations have reduced them to isolated attacks of minor importance.

At a few points the allies have made slight gains which have enabled them to consolidate positions previously taken by them. The French war office says that the German attacks at various points have all been repulsed.

Further gains have been made and held in the Argonne. In the Vosges the Germans are being pressed back toward Cirey, the French having gained heights from which their artillery commands important valleys and roads.

The following are the official bulletins:

FRENCH.

"After having directed a very lively artillery and infantry fire throughout the whole of Saturday night against our troops occupying La Boisselle and the neighboring trenches the enemy made two consecutive attacks with out any success. We hold strongly the trenches captured near Puisselle line. On the Hauts de Meuse we are consolidating the occupation of the ground occupied by us near the Calonne trench. St. Die has been violently bombarded.

"Between the North sea and the Lys the day was calm with intermittent cannonading. Between the Lys and the Oise there is nothing to report. In the valley of the Aisne and in Champagne there has been an artillery duel. The enemy after a violent bombardment in the region of Pertles attempted a counter attack on the trenches which he had lost. The attack was repulsed by our artillery fire and by our infantry.

"In the Argonne we have made slight progress to the south of St. Hubert and one company gained between 100 and 200 meters. We have bombarded a ravine where the enemy evacuated several trenches.

PRINCE EITEL FRIEDRICH.

Kaiser's Second Son Urged For Throne of Hungary.

The candidacy of Prince Eitel Friedrich, second son of the Kaiser, for the throne of Hungary is certainly being energetically pushed by Germany. It has been put about in Hungary that the name Eitel is merely the modern form of Attila. This naturally, according to German reasoning, marks out the holder of the name as hereditary claimant to the independent throne which, it is forecasted, will be one of the results of this war for Hungary.

"Between the Meuse and the Moselle to the east of St. Mihiel, two German attacks against the redoubt of Lechols Brule were repulsed.

"A diabolical throw a dozen bombs on Nancy in the center of the city without any military reason for such an action. Our aeroplanes, on the contrary, have bombarded the aviation hangars at Frescati, one of the railway stations at Metz, where the movement of trains had been reported, and we also bombarded the barracks of Saint Privat at Metz.

"In upper Alsace our troops have made further advances on the heights overlooking Cernay and we have repulsed several German attacks."

GERMAN.

"Nothing of importance happened Saturday in Flanders.

"The enemy made an unsuccessful advance movement at Albert. In the direction of Bohelle, which was followed by a successful counter attack by our troops.

"The French attacks in Meurissons, in the Argonne and southeast of Verdun, broke down under our fire. In upper Alsace the French attacked our positions east of the Thann-Dammkirch line, but all these assaults were repulsed.

"During the first hours of Saturday night the French gained possession of an important height east of Thann, but were thrown back after a vigorous counter attack and the height remained in our possession Sunday."

AVIATOR LOST IN CUXHAVEN RAID

German Zeppelins Battle With British Aeroplanes.

London, Dec. 28.—Assisted by light cruisers, destroyers and submarines, seven British naval aviators, piloting seaplanes, made a daring attack on Christmas day on the German naval base at Cuxhaven, at the mouth of the Elbe.

Six of the aviators returned safely, but the seventh, Commander Hewlett, it is feared, has been lost, as his machine was found off Helgoland wrecked.

What damage was done by the bombs thrown by the attacking party could not be ascertained, but the German report of the affair says that the raid was fruitless.

The enterprise of the British navy in thus attempting to "dig out" the German fleet brought about a battle between the most modern of war machines.

The British squadron, including the light cruisers Arctura and Undaunted, which have been engaged in previous exploits on the German coast, was attacked by Zeppelins, seaplanes and submarines.

By rapid maneuvering the ships were able to avoid the submarines, while the Zeppelins found the fire of the cruisers too dangerous for them to keep up the fight. The German seaplanes dropped bombs, which, according to the British account, fell harmlessly into the sea. The Germans, however, claim to have hit two destroyers and their convoy, the latter being set afire.

The British ships remained in the vicinity for three hours without being attacked by any surface warships and picked up the seven pilots and their planes. Three others were picked up by submarines, but their machines were sunk. Commander Hewlett, it is thought, was drowned.

GERMANS IN BIG FLANK ATTACK

Troops From East Prussia Try to Get in Russians' Rear.

KAISER REOCCUPIES MLAWA

Alarmed by the Failure of Their Assault on Russian Lines Defending Warsaw, Troops Again Move Forward.

Petrograd, Dec. 28.—Alarmed by the breaking down of their onslaught on the Russian lines, which have firmly resisted any further advance toward Warsaw by the German forces between the Vistula and the Polica, the German forces in East Prussia, heavily reinforced, are moving forward again from East Prussia in an attempt to get to the rear of the Russian army defending the Polish capital.

The Russians have fallen back from the East Prussian frontier, which they had crossed victoriously a few days ago, and the advancing Germans have reoccupied Mlawka, on the important railway line which runs southeast to Warsaw some sixty miles away.

The Germans had been forced back over the border into German territory as far as Lautenburg and Soldan, but the strategic railroads in control of the Kaiser's forces here enabled them to bring up fresh troops, who succeeded in checking the Russian forces.

The fighting in the region of Mlawka is expected to continue with alternate advances and withdrawals, such as has characterized the war in that region for many weeks, without having any immediate influence on the main operations in Poland.

There the Germans have found the shortest road, that which lies eastward from the Bzura river, completely closed to them. From where the Vistula and Bzura unite, southward to the Polica, they have swept up against the Russian lines to recoil without having moved the Russians from their positions.

Days of such fighting, with great losses resulting from their furious attacks, have forced the Germans to cease their attacks along the Bzura, and to move the chief weight of their attack southward to the Polica, where, if they succeeded in crumbling the Russian line, they would find another straight road open to Warsaw, but one longer than they have unsuccessfully tried to gain in the region of Socha zw, the center of their attempt to cross the Bzura.

The efforts of the Germans to break through now center on the right bank of the Polica, southeast of Tomas zow.

That the German advance toward Warsaw by this route has been definitely stopped by the Russians on the Bzura and the Kawa is accepted as an established fact, and it is believed that the Russians will now assume the offensive on a grand scale throughout the offensive of the long battle front.

Military experts say that the failure of the Austrians to raise the siege of Przemyśl has shattered the enemy's campaign in Galicia and contributed to the collapse of the German attack on Warsaw.

The Russians in Galicia have been reinforced and have succeeded in driving the Austrians out of Jaslo and Krosno, between Przemyśl and the river Dunajec, reoccupying those two important points.

SIEGE OF NAGO IS ABANDONED

Leader Withdraws Troops After Promise to Gen. Scott.

STOPS SHOTS ACROSS BORDER

Consul Silliman Reports From Mexico That He Is Accused of Accepting Bribe to Effect Release From Prison of a General.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Following a conference with General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, at the Arizona border town of Naco, General Maytorena, governor of Sonora and leader of the Villista forces, has abandoned the siege of the Mexican portion of Naco and has withdrawn to the southwest.

General Scott went to Naco in an effort to stop permanently fighting at points on the border where the bullets of the Mexican combatants endangered American life and property.

The close relations between the Villa Zapata factions and the state department in Washington appear in danger of a breach, following an accusation made by Zapata's man in Mexico City, General Palafox, that John R. Silliman, an American consul in Mexico, who is regarded as President Wilson's personal representative, had accepted a bribe of 500,000 pesos to effect the release from jail of General Iturbide, formerly governor of the Mexican federal district. Mr. Silliman himself reported this to the department of state, dismissing the accusation as absurd.

General Iturbide refused to leave Mexico City when Villa and Zapata approached, and promised to safeguard foreign interests and prevent looting. He was thrown into jail.

Mr. Bryan directed Mr. Silliman to make strong representations to Provisional President Gutierrez and General Villa to effect General Iturbide's release. As a result of this General Iturbide was allowed to go and is reported to be on his way to El Paso, Tex.

Provisional President Gutierrez has issued a circular to all generals of the army, ordering them to cease all summary killings for whatever offense. Copies were sent to General Villa and General Zapata.

The provisional president's secretary gave an interview authorized by the chief executive, in which he said that General Villa objected to the circular as unnecessary, because Villa wished to run down the "assassins" and punish them.

The decree of the provisional president caused a sensation in Washington.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Twenty-one modern battleships flying the Stars and Stripes will follow the Oregon, the old bulldog of the navy, through the Panama canal when the Atlantic fleet goes to participate in the opening ceremonies of the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Rear Admiral Fletcher, commanding the fleet, conferred with Secretary of the Navy Daniels on this and other subjects. No decision has been reached as to whether a flotilla of destroyers also should make the trip, but the battle craft and their requisite colliers, repair and supply ships, will make an imposing naval parade.

JOHN D.'S FOUNDATION IS CALLED MENACE

Samuel Gompers Makes a Sharp Attack.

Washington, Dec. 28.—A sharp attack upon the Rockefeller Foundation is made by President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, in the official organ of that labor body. It says:

"That Foundation has not escaped the fire of general condemnation (in the Colorado strike situation).

"Why should one of the most powerful research institutions in the world be financed by private moneys and private boards and its financial interests identified with those of ruthless exploiting corporations? Can the researches and spirit of an institution under the domination of the Standard Oil billions be that of search for the truth regardless of all else—search for absolute truths?"

"When the Rockefeller Foundation was first established we published a protest against Mr. Rockefeller's broad, comprehensive scheme, objecting to any man's attempting to establish himself as a sort of All-Seeing Providence to provide for future and present generations.

"Organized labor protested against granting a federal charter to increase and perpetuate Mr. Rockefeller's power over the educational force and thought of the nation and the world.

"However, the Foundation was established. The insidious influences and corruption which organized labor feared developed. Last summer it was revealed that 600 nominal government employees were on the pay roll of the Rockefeller Foundation.

"Because of the way they were made the Rockefeller millions carry suspicion with them for whatever purpose they may be used."

BULLET HITS TWO GIRLS

Shot by Negro Duelists. With Lynching Expected as Result.

Union, S. C., Dec. 28.—Shooting two attractive sixteen-year-old girls, the Misses Coleman and Fowler, daughters of prominent citizens of Jonesville, this county, may cause the lynching of two young negroes.

The two girls, while shopping, were struck by bullets fired by the negroes at one another, the trouble being caused by liquor and an old grudge. One bullet went through one girl and seriously wounded the other, according to reports.

The negroes were promptly arrested and committed to the town jail by Chief of Police Fowler, whose niece is one of the wounded girls. Because of threatened trouble, Sheriff Pant has gone to the scene to prevent any harm to the prisoners and bring them to Union for safekeeping.

BUSY ON WAR MUNITIONS

West Improvements at Bethlehem Steel Plant to Go Forward.

South Bethlehem, Pa., Dec. 28.—President E. G. Grace, of the Bethlehem Steel company, says great improvements have been going on at the big local plant, and that these will be continued.

The improvements are being made from a $25,000,000 fund, which was being spent at the rate of $750,000 a month until the stock market closed down, when the great war in Europe broke, which made the money market tight.

While the lull in construction work has now extended over a period of nearly six months in some departments, in others great activity has been witnessed—the enlarging of such departments as projectiles, etc., where great contracts with England for shrapnel have been received.

It is expected, now that the stock market has opened up again, that it will not be long before money will become easier and that the great work of general improvement and extension can go on.

In the Lehigh plant, blast furnace "C," one of the new battery of furnaces, each one of which cost $2,500,000 to erect, has been rebuilt, and the furnace will be put into blast as soon as its product is needed.

GENERAL CLEAN UP

The brisk business of December has left us with many Odds and Ends all over the Store which we are determined must be Closed out Quick.

Look out for our Special Sale of Cottons to begin JANUARY 2ND. 1915.

I was worried sick until he told me—

WHEN he was put to bed, I couldn't figure out how we were going to make ends meet. It takes almost every cent he earns to keep us going.

But the next day he said: "Don't worry, dear. It cost me so little that I forgot to tell you I'd taken out an AETNA ACCUMULATIVE DISABILITY POLICY."

Doctor says he's a pretty sick man, but will pull through all right. And that policy brings us $50 a week while he's too sick to go out—and $25 a week afterward while he can't attend to his work.

You can't imagine how relieved I am. With that money coming in regularly, we don't have to worry.

Greek Coins Most Perfect.

Between the rude issues of Asia Minor and the most perfect coins of the Greek states is an interval of three centuries, during which all that is known, or probably ever will be known, in beautifying a steel die was achieved. So far as design is concerned, the Greek coins were simply perfect. No modern coins can compare with them in beauty.—Scientific American.
